INVESTMENT MEMORANDUM

A feature film · Eng / Rus / Mex co-production · 101 min · Black and white

Filmatix.ai · 2026

▸ DRAFT — FINANCIAL FIGURES CARRIED FROM THE 2016 FINANCING PLAN AND FLAGGED FOR RECONFIRMATION

01 · THE FILM

One page

In 1959 the Soviet Union photographed the far side of the Moon for the first time in human history. On its world tour of celebration, the probe stopped in Mexico. The CIA had one night with it.

A Cold War farce, played completely straight — and underneath the comedy, an elegy for the one thing in the story that was never cynical: the machine itself.

GENRE	RUNTIME	FORMAT	RATING	CO-PRODUCTION	RELEASE
Farcical noir	101 minutes	Black and white	15+	Eng / Rus / Mex	International theatrical

▸ SOURCE MATERIAL DESCRIBED THE FILM AS PG-13 AND 3D IN 2014 PRESS — BOTH SUPERSEDED BY THE CURRENT PLAN

02 · THE OPPORTUNITY

Why this film, and why now

01 A new Mexican tax incentive

In February 2026 Mexico created a transferable 30% production tax credit. For a Mexican co-production this materially changes the risk profile — see slide 07.

02 The project has been financed before

In 2016 this film assembled 53% of its budget from institutional sources including Lionsgate/Televisa and the Mexican Film Institute. Those commitments have lapsed, but the appetite was real and documented — see slide 06.

03 Black and white is commercially proven

Ida, Cold War, The Lighthouse, Roma. Monochrome is now an art-house signal that travels, wins awards, and sells territories.

04 The subject is permanently current

A satire about intelligence agencies, propaganda and superpower vanity does not date. It reads as history and as the present at the same time.

05 The look is achievable at our budget

The film hides 60% of every frame in darkness by design. Restraint is the aesthetic and the cost control — see slide 11.

Structure

Equity investment into a Mexican production entity, recouping in first position after soft money and sales fees, at a premium, pari passu among equity holders. Full terms on slide 08.

▸ THE 2016 TOTAL IS SHOWN AS A BASIS ONLY. TEN YEARS OF COST INFLATION HAVE NOT BEEN APPLIED — EXPECT A MATERIALLY HIGHER CURRENT BUDGET

05 · PRIOR TRACTION

What this film assembled once before

This is not a first-time package. In 2015–16 the production closed more than half its budget with institutional money. Every commitment below has since lapsed — but it establishes that the film has already cleared diligence at studio and public-fund level.

Mexican Film Institute — EFICINE Art. 189	Awarded	$ 733,333
Renta Imagen / Kiri	Confirmed	$ 1,000,000
Lionsgate / Televisa	Confirmed	$ 1,000,000
David P. Kelly — lead producer (£500,000)	Confirmed	$ 750,000
ASSEMBLED — 53%		$ 3,483,333
Russian funds (€950,000)	Sought	$ 1,013,270
German funds (€1,500,000)	Sought	$ 1,600,000
US equity	Sought	$ 500,000
GAP — 47%		$ 3,113,270
TOTAL		$ 6,596,603

▸ SOURCE: LUNIK 3 FINANCING PLAN, FILE DATED AUGUST 2015 / JANUARY 2016. NO COMMITMENT SHOWN IS PRESENTED AS CURRENT. ALL REQUIRE RECONFIRMATION

06 · STRUCTURE

The financing stack

Soft money — EFICA tax credit Recovered from the tax authority. Not dependent on box office.	30% of qualifying Mexican spend
Soft money — EFICINE Art. 189 Prior award of $733,333 (2015). May be mutually exclusive with EFICA.	[status to confirm]
Pre-sales / minimum guarantees Lionsgate/Televisa previously committed $1,000,000. Territory estimates exist from 2015.	[to be rebuilt]
Co-production equity German and Russian funds were the 2016 route. €2.45M was sought and never closed.	[to be reopened]
Gap / debt Lent against unsold territories.	[if required]
Equity — this raise Last in, first to recoup after fees and soft money.	[figure]

The higher the soft-money layer, the less equity is genuinely at risk. That is the argument this document is built on.

07 · MEXICO

A 30% transferable tax credit

On 16 February 2026 Mexico published a decree creating a new transferable income tax credit for film and audiovisual production carried out in Mexican territory. Implementing guidelines followed on 30 March 2026.

30%	of total qualifying production cost incurred in Mexico
MXN 40M	maximum credit per project, per beneficiary
70%	national suppliers required to qualify
2030	in force until 30 September

WHY IT MATTERS

The credit is transferable — a share may be sold to other taxpayers, creating a secondary market and a route toward cash.

It converts the proposition from "invest in a film" to "invest in a structure where a substantial share returns before a single ticket is sold."

The production holds a prior EFICINE Article 189 award from 2015. Whether a project may draw on both regimes, and whether that award survives, is the first question for counsel.

▸ ELIGIBILITY, EFICINE INTERACTION AND FINAL FIGURES TO BE CONFIRMED BY MEXICAN COUNSEL BEFORE ISSUE

08 · RECOUPMENT

How investors get paid

01 Distribution and sales fees, delivery and marketing costs

02 Senior debt and gap financing, if any

03 EQUITY RECOUPMENT — principal returned in full

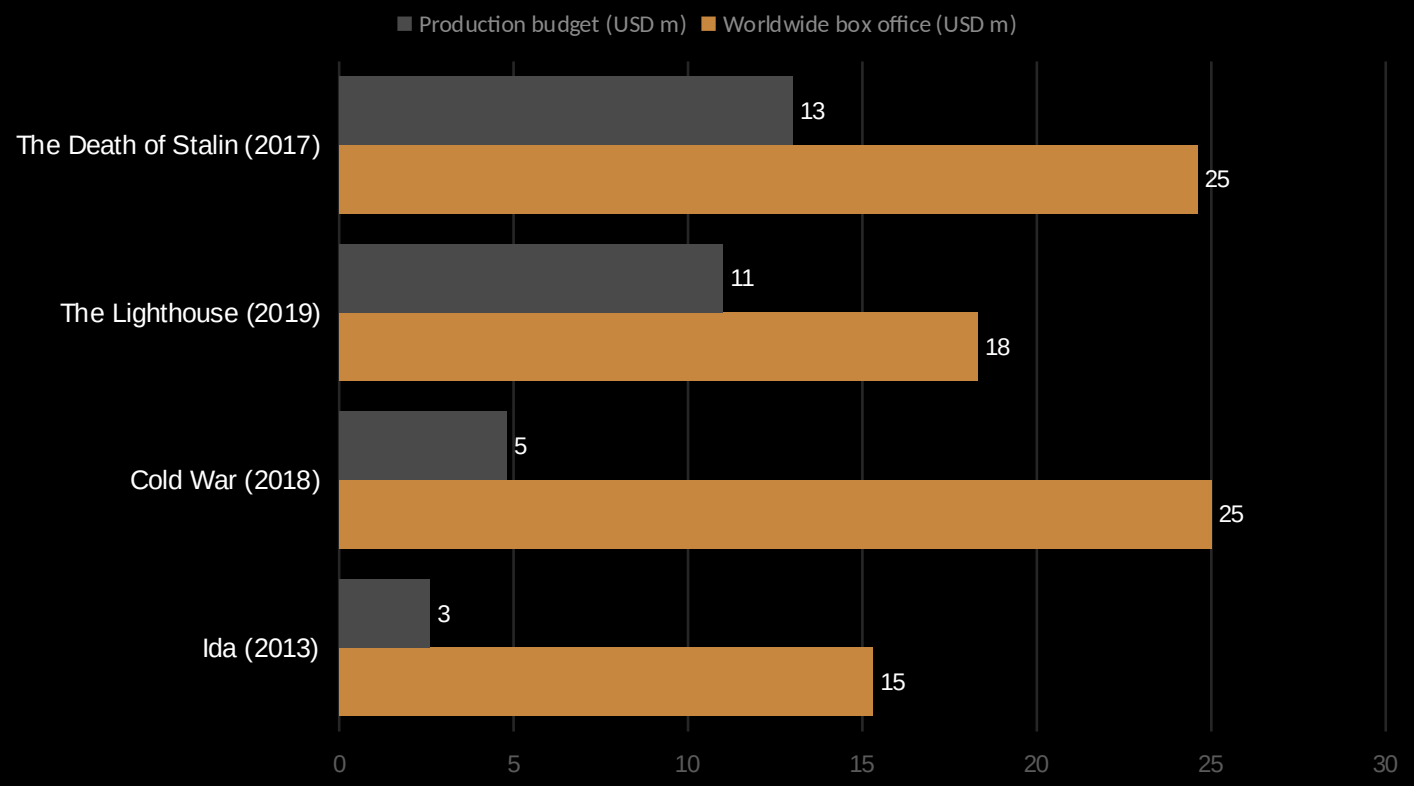

04 EQUITY PREMIUM — [%] on top of principal

05 Net profits split between financiers and producers

Equity sits ahead of every producer and talent participation. Investors are made whole, with a premium, before any profit is shared.

What films like this have done

Ida

5.9× budget · Academy Award, Best Foreign Language Film

Cold War

5.2× budget · three Academy Award nominations

The Lighthouse

1.7× budget · A24, modest but profitable theatrical

Death of Stalin

1.9× budget · closest tonal comparable

Sources: Box Office Mojo, IMDb, Wikipedia. A deliberately mixed set — two outliers and two modest performers.

10 · METHOD

The look is the cost control

"The mind holds greater potency than any CGI."

Roughly 60% of every frame in this film sits in absolute black. That is an artistic thesis — hide half the image and let the audience finish it — and it is simultaneously the production strategy.

Darkness replaces set build	What is not lit does not have to be constructed.
Miniatures replace visual effects	Practical, photographed, and period-correct by nature.
Single hard light sources	Faster setups, smaller units, shorter days.
Black and white removes colour continuity	A significant saving in art department and grade.

This is how the film looks considerably more expensive than it is.

Distribution, festivals and prior interest

SALES

A 2015 territory-by-territory estimate exists, prepared for the earlier package: $4.85M asking / $2.92M take across international, excluding domestic. Non-binding and a decade old — it needs rebuilding by a current agent, but it establishes the shape of the market.

FESTIVALS

The earlier package was invited to Berlinale Co-Production Market 12, the Moscow International Film Festival co-production forum, Guadalajara (FICG), Fantastic Fest and Guanajuato. Berlinale, Venice, San Sebastián and Morelia remain the natural path.

PRIOR COVERAGE

The project drew unpaid trade and national press on announcement — Screen Daily, Milenio and El Universal — on the strength of the declassified source material alone. That coverage predates any footage existing.

STREAMING

Monochrome prestige has an established second window. Roma, Ida and Cold War all found substantial streaming audiences after theatrical.

▸ SALES AGENT TO BE ATTACHED AHEAD OF PRINCIPAL PHOTOGRAPHY. ALL 2014–15 INTEREST REQUIRES RECONFIRMATION AND IS SHOWN AS HISTORY, NOT AS COMMITMENT

The teaser

A 2 minute 52 second teaser has been produced.

Every frame of the film's visual language — the black, the light beams, the two registers, the miniatures — already exists on screen. The look is not a proposal. It is a finished object that can be watched.

It converts the single hardest ask in film finance — trust our taste — into the easiest one: watch our taste.
